Support Empowers Young Adults After Cancer, Duke TYAO

This experience [fertility preservation] took a weight off my shoulders when spiraling thoughts about being a mom came to mind, especially as I am 24 and wasn't in this stage of life, but knew it is something I wanted. Whether I use the eggs or not, it feels like a safety blanket and positive. Daniela

Testimonials

"I thought Bobby's Coaches could be the missing piece why I felt so lonely in my diagnosis... Having the coach made everything so much less stressful and isolating." Bobby's Coaches participant

"I really feel that stories are inspiring and informative. I don't have anyone near me that is even close to my age with cancer." Therapeutic Journaling participant

'Cancer ghosting' can be more painful than treatment, survivors say, NPR

"The thought of becoming a mother is no longer just a dream; it feels tangible and attainable. I know that whenever I am ready, I have the option to expand my family because of the egg retrieval grant that helped me through this difficult time." Laina, survivor

"After treatment, there were a lot of things I was worried I would not be able to do in the same capacity as before. Steph has helped me to realize that is not true and has given me my confidence back. I can't say enough good things about how much both this program and Steph have helped me. I am so grateful that I was able to participate in such a powerful program." IMPACT participant
